

Website/Internet presence consulting

Do you have an online shop or website that you use to present your company or your products? Do you have a blog, forum, or some other form of online offering? Are you planning some other sort of Internet presence? Unless it is a purely private Internet site, there are a few legal stipulations to note, e.g. with respect to a data protection declaration or provider identification. In addition, questions regarding the reliability of the advertising statements, the information of legally stipulated compulsory information, or the responsibility for content must be noted. We therefore recommend that an Internet presence be checked regularly for its legal soundness. This can prevent irritating and costly warning notices.

What we offer

We will check for you the factual and legal situation, particularly regarding the adherence to all competition law, data protection law, brand law, and copyright law questions in connection with your Internet presence.

We will indicate to you any risks in connection with your online offering. We will create for you complete and legally-conforming text in accordance with the statutory specifications, e.g. for the data protection declaration, the legal notice, or other obligatory information. Furthermore, we will indicate you any technically required measures, provided these items are not being considered on your Internet presence.
